FOREWORD

In the making of Catalina Pottery there are two predominating ideas; first, to style an object of art with a lasting significance as to the aesthetic and cultural background of our times; and second, to have these ceramics fill a functional purpose for which they were designed. In this respect they not only must be an object of beauty, but also serve the purpose for which they were created with the efficiency that our modern day demands.

Special attention is given to the glazing, and to the quality of Catalina Pottery. Both satin and glass finish glazes in beautiful colors give a richness of texture that will adapt itself to the most refined interiors. The quality of this ware is unquestioned. Made with all of the scientific methods available to the modern ceramist, each piece has the individuality that is found only in hand-made pottery.
